Week In Review

We hope you enjoyed your Columbus Day Holiday on Monday. On Tuesday, the Children of Redeemer Renaissance became explorers themselves and participated in a scavenger hunt. On Wednesday, we began our "Candy Corn Olympics." The children played a relay with candy corn. On Thursday they played candy corn tick tack toe, and on Friday, candy corn hockey.

Upcoming Event at Redeemer

Redeemer's Preschool will hold their famous semi-annual consignment sale for maternity, infants and children on October 23rd and 24th.

Preparations for the Consignment Sale will begin on October 22nd.

On October 22nd and 23rd, it will be necessary to pick your children up on the Westmoreland St. side of the church through the glass doors.

Cupcakes for the Homeless

Seriously

On Saturday, Georgetown Cupcake donated

5 dozen cupcakes which were sold on Sunday morning between worship services at Redeemer. The sales and accompanying donations brought in a sizeable contribution to our Help-The-Homeless Mini-Walk. We are grateful for the gift from Georgetown Cupcake and the support of the congregation. The cupcakes were amazingly delicious. It's no wonder people wait in line for them. If you get an opportunity, visit Georgetown Cupcake for yourself and let them know how great we think the owners are.

If you still wish to make a gift to our Help-The-Homeless Mini-Walk, you can place it in the Redeemer Renaissance mailbox. Checks should be made payable to the Redeemer After-School Program with Mini-Walk in the memo line.

Music Lessons

There is still space in the schedules of the guitar, cello, bass, and trumpet teachers.
